This is said to account for Mr. Hilken's visit to Boston last week.

Definite information was lacking at the offices of the Eastern Forwarding Company today as to the reported shipment of gold, and it was intimated the clearance papers could be consulted "within a reasonable time." There may be $100,000 or $4,000,000 in builton, or not an ounce aboard.

ROCKEFELLER PROBE INTERESTS CONGRESS

Both Houses Want to Know More About Investigation.

Proposed investigation of the Gov ernment by a Rockefeller board, known the Rockefeller Institute for Government Research, caused members of Congress to prick up their ears today. It has not been so long since the Government was investigating the favorite institution of the Rockefellers, Standard Oil. Now, as one member of Congress remarked with a touch of humor today, "John D. has turned the tables on Uncle Sam."

numor today, "John D. has turned the tables on Uncle Sam."

The question asked in Congress by those members who have given the subject attention is what it is all about.

One prominent Republican Senator said he viewed the investigation as of dublous interest and would like to know more about it. He said he did not wish to appear as fighting it until he understood its purpose, but that he purposed to look into it.

It is not unlikely there will be an airing of views on the subject of a Rockefeller inyestigation of the Government on the floor of the Senate or House or both.

Nothing probably could be done to prevent the Rockefeller Institute for Government research or any like body from finding out facts about the conduct of the Government and collating them. Still, some opinions might be expressed which would have an influ-

Still, some opinions might be expressed which would have an influthe past, a lot of sharp objection In the past, a lot of sharp objection has been expressed to the efforts of the Rockefeller Foundation to link itself with Government activities. The companionship of Dr. Adams and Dr. Atwood was distasteful to members of Dr. Adams' family. They felt the marriage. Dr. Adams was thirty-two and Dr. Atwood is twenty-three. With parents, former instructors, partner, and friends united in opposition to her love affair. Dr. Adams brooded. She was extremely nervous. Hard work contributed to her state of mind, and these were all contributory causes to the condition of mind that may have ed her to commit suicide.

The discovery of a previous love affair of Dr. Adams tends to confirm the now accepted theory of suicide for love. Dr. Adams was engaged to a Dr. Shedd in Seattle several years ago. He fell from a building and was killed. Meanwhile the police are continuing their search for the vender of the fatal

BRITISH ADVANCE ADMITTED BY BERLIN

Statement Says Enemy Failed to Get Decisive Foothold.

BERLIN, July 24.—British troops failed to obtain any decisive foothold in their offensive along the Posieres sector, the War Office statement declared today.

"The only advantage the British obtained yesterday, along the line from Thiepval to Guillemont was at Posieres, where they penetrated a few house," the tatement asserted.

It was added that the engagement at Posieres had cost the British heavily in dead and wounded. Southwest of Guillemont, the British forces intrenched in a sand quarry were dislodged and driven out by the Brandenburgers.

Along the French battle front, enemy operations at Soyecourt and west of Vermandovillers failed. On the righ bank of the Meuse the French artillery fire was described as "intense."

On the eastern front the communique said enemy attacks northwest of Berestike had been repulsed.

Violent German counter-attacks northeast of Kovel have been repulsed. Today a violent artillery duel is in progress between the forces of Generals Kuropatkin and von Hindenburg along the northeasternmost point of the battle front.

So far the censor has veiled the exact details of General Kuropatkin's recent coup, but the fact that the Czar's troops have been able successfully to pierce von Hindenburg's line—considered the striking achievements of the war.

Further details today served to accentrate the extent of the victories of General Sakharoff along the rivers Lipa and Styr. Apparently his forces have almost encircled the leutonic commands of Generals Bochm—Ermolli and Bothmer, forcing their incontinent retirement.

Russian troops now dominate both banks of the Lina from the Styr to near Mirkow, and in some parts or the line have thrust forward eight or ten miles beyond the river. Brody is menaced with an enveloping movement.

The British commander reported that ground had been gained near the High Wood of Pozieres.

"We secured important advantages in spite of the enemy's stubborn defense," he stated. "A large portion of the village is now ours. We took two guns and sixty more prisoners."

General Haig said repeated German counter-attacks made yesterday between High Wood and Guillemont had been without success, and that British artillery and machine guns had inflicted heavy casualties.

Last night was one of comparative caim, he concluded.

Despite Haig's statement that the night was "comparatively calm," special dispatches from Paris today declared that the battle along the Guillemont-Pozieres line was continuing, and at midnight the British held the advantage.
